GTIN [வீப் கடைவிப்] பது பெற்பி? GTIN (பார்கோடு) என்றால் என்ன? What is a GTIN (Barcode)?

What is a GTIN (Barcode)?

A GTIN (Global Trading Item Number) is a machine-readable code in the form of numbers, which is indicated using a series of bars and spaces printed in defined ratios. It is read electronically through a laser or camera-based system which will help to search an associated record that contains descriptive data and other important information in a system.

Benefits of GTIN (Barcode)

- Eliminates human errors: With the help of the barcoding technology the company will be able to eliminate the manual errors and as a result it will improve the efficiency of the company.
- Ability to maintain an automated inventory control system: As the inventories are barcoded, the whole inventory operation can be computerized.
- Enables to save time and costs: With barcoded inventories, work can be done with lesser number of workers at a limited time period, delivering them significant costs and time savings.
- Improves operational efficiency: Since barcodes permit faster and more accurate records the work in process can fulfill one customer's requirements quickly.

What is Global Standard 1 (GS1)?

GS1 is the global language used by businesses to interact with both local and international stakeholders.

With the help of GS1, the businesses will be able to identify, capture and share information with each other, which is a crucial part of a business.

The variations in carrying out value chain activities by companies make them unique from one another, these variations would also result in confusions among entities and this is where GS1 comes into play. Today, barcodes play a major role in supply chains empowering parties such as retailers, manufacturers, transport providers and hospitals to identify and track products at every stage of the supply chain and realize changing consumer demands at the minimal cost.

The importance of joining GS1

- Products are internationally identifiable: A product barcoded in one country are uniquely identifiable in all the other countries. Thus, your products are easily recognizable anywhere in the world.
- International Quality Assurance for your products: The GS1 keys appearing on your product assures that your products complies with Global Standards 1 System.
- Your products become internationally competitive: As countries like USA, UK, Germany require exporters to have their products barcoded, you can have a competitive advantage over other exporters by barcoding your products.
